SABBATH IN THE COUNTRY. Now soars the lark in heaven's eyes; Through leafy crypt now steals the stream With sallow dimple, sword-blade gleam, And glimpses of divine surprise.

Heaven's olden fire and air of blite, Are droved about the bowery world; Within her holy bosom hurled. The sun has drunk the rose's dew. The landscape all around is fair. But this remains, the heart and gem: With stealing stream, and graceful stem, And sunlit park, and sweet parterre.

The vista fascinates my gaze;] See in a dream the waters glasce, And things that are the food of praise. In many a quiet cottage round;

Japonica, a glory glows; Her ruby-colored sister blows; And purple pansies gem the ground. The first laburnum droops her curls, And mingles with the lilac's locks; O'er golden meadows browse the flocks The orchard blossom types sweet girls The sweet briar sheds its heavenly breath; I pass the wall-flower's rich perfume; And chestnut with its tin-freaked plume; O world to banish dreams of death! The scent of flower, the song of bird, The lace of leaf, the light of heaven, the that will a myste reaven, We have a soul for, not a word.

Unless it besthe breath of God; Which also breathes in you church-bell; It breaks on me with what a spell Across the May embroidered sod! Earth, clothed with Sabbath, thou art fair ; Ye two upon each other act!
The Sabbath steeps the flowery tract,
And finer seems to make the air.

DURABLE TIMBER. - A correspondent of the Prairie Farmer finds the wood of the catalpa much more durable than white oak for posts-catalpa posts set about 1845 outlasting white oak posts set about ten years later. But he finds the Osage orange on the whole the best timber for posts, growing rapidly, and proving very durable, and the plantation when cut reproducing itself readily.

How to USE PARIS GREEN .- D. C Richmond, of Ohio, recommends the following way of applying this virulent bug-killer, avoiding the danger of the arsenic dust-flying in the air and entering the breath. A hogshead of water, with a faucet, is drawn on a wagon to the potato field, as a reservoir to draw from. Fill a pail with water and stir in a heaped tablespoon of pure Paris green, and more if impure. Dip in an old broom, and with it sprinkle the infested plants. Bright sunshine is the best time.

WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE, -A correspondent of the London Garden gives a recipe for this popular sauce. He says : "I do not offer it as Lea & Perrin's, but I do say that it is equal, if not superior to it, in my opinion. It is not a recipe copied out of a book, but one I have known a long time. Half a pound shallots; 1 oz. pimento, powdered; oz. mace, powdered: 1 oz. cayenne half a nutmeg, powdered; † fb. anchovy fish; 1 oz. salt; 3 pints vinegar; 6 oz. Chop or bruise the shallots, beat up the anchovy fish, mix all together, let it stand for a month or so, and lastly strain through a coarse sieve."

ARCTURUS.

What Astronomers Know About this Typical Star. Arcturus, the "fairest of the stars, ranks first in brightness among the sparkling mysteries of the northern hemisphere. It is the fourth on the list of the twenty first-magnitude stars, its three more brilliant rivals, Sirius, Canopus, and Alpha-Centauri, being si uated in the southern hemisphere; al though Sirius is so near the equinoctia that very many observers both north and south can enjoy its peerless lustre. Every prominent star has its distinguishing characteristic, and Arcturus, besides being the leading brilliant of the north, bears a marked resemblance to our own great central luminary, its spectrum being identical with the ordinary spectrum of the sun.
